Joining Other
State Colleges
In Round Of Boosts

By Associated Press

For more Michigan students—or their families—the cost of education went up another notch Friday.

Michigan State University and Western Michigan University joined the parade of higher education institutions that have raised tuition to meet their budgets.

Western hiked its tuition by $35 to $185 for Michigan residents and by $100 per semester to $400 for nonresidents.

Michigan State increased non-resident tuition $60 to $400 per term, but produced an elaborate sliding scale geared to the income of the student or his family if they live in Michigan.

Wayne, EMU

Wayne State University and Eastern Michigan University announced tuition increases earlier, Wayne's by $99 to $300 yearly for all students and Eastern's by $60 to $150.

The increases have been blamed on higher costs of educating and the fact that most colleges anticipated more money than the Legislature appropriated for them.

Michigan State also followed the lead of the University of Michigan in raising dormitory fees, MSU's by $10 to $300 a term and U-M's by $25 for three-person rooms, $50 for two-person rooms and $70 for single person rooms.

Big Fire Blamed On Children

CASSOPOLIS — Fire believed started by children playing with matches destroyed a lumber company storage shed and a large quantity of building materials at Union yesterday.

Cass county sheriff's officers said preliminary estimates of the loss exceeded $50,000.

Firemen from five departments battled the fire most of the night and saved the Harman Lumber Co. office building and a nearby building supply firm next door.

The blaze broke out about 6 p.m. at the firm in the small community in the southeastern corner of the county on US-12.

Firemen from South Porter townships, Edwardsburg and Bristol and Elkhart, Indiana, controlled the fire.

BASIL RATHBONE

Film Star Rathbone Is Dead At 75

Noted For Role Of Sherlock Holmes

NEW YORK (AP) — Basil Rathbone, the suave Shakespearean actor familiar to two generations of moviegoers as the screen's lean and angular Sherlock Holmes, is dead of a heart attack. He was 75.

Rathbone played the role of Arthur Conan Doyle's deerstalker-capped, fictional sleuth in 16 films midway in his career as a Hollywood star.

Then, feeling his own personality was being submerged by that of Holmes, he abruptly quit the series and returned to his first love, the stage.

Rathbone had no history of heart trouble and had remained active until his death Friday in his Manhattan apartment. Only the day before he had undergone a routine checkup by his physician.

Although he achieved popular fame and considerable fortune through the Holmes series, Rathbone usually referred to the experience derisively after he quit.

"I played Holmes for seven years, and nobody thought I could do anything else," he once complained.

"I simply threw away the pipe and hat and came back to Broadway. It was a simple question of survival — Holmes or Rathbone."

Sliding Scale Set By Board

Democrats Okay
Change Despite
GOP Opposition

By BOB VOGES

EAST LANSING (AP) — Democrats on the Michigan State University Board of Trustees have pushed through a unique tuition fee plan based on family income and ability to pay.

The plan, similar in philosophy to the graduated income tax sought by Democrats, will apply only to Michigan students. Only those from families with incomes more than $11,800 a year will be affected.

MSU Treasurer Philip May said that, as far as he knows, the plan is unique in the country.

The three Republicans on the board, voicing violent objections, voted in the minority against the plan.

OUT-OF-STATERS

Trustees stuck to a simple, straight tuition increase for students from outside the state. Their tuition was jumped from $340 to $400 a term. For the regular three-term year, this will be an increase of from $1,020 to $1,200.

The fee hike also applies to students at Oakland University in Rochester, a branch of MSU.

Students from outside the state represent about 21 per cent of MSU's enrollment, expected to be about 39,000 this fall.

Students from families with incomes of $11,800 a year or less will continue to pay the present fee of $118 a term or $354 for the three-term year.

Those from families with incomes above $11,800 will be assessed three per cent of the family income as a tuition fee.

CEILING SET

The ceiling increase will be $167 a term or $501 for the three-term year.

The highest figure would be paid by a student from a family with an income of $16,666. There will be no increase above $501 a year for the student from a family with an even higher income.

Federal income tax figures will be used as a guide for the assessment.

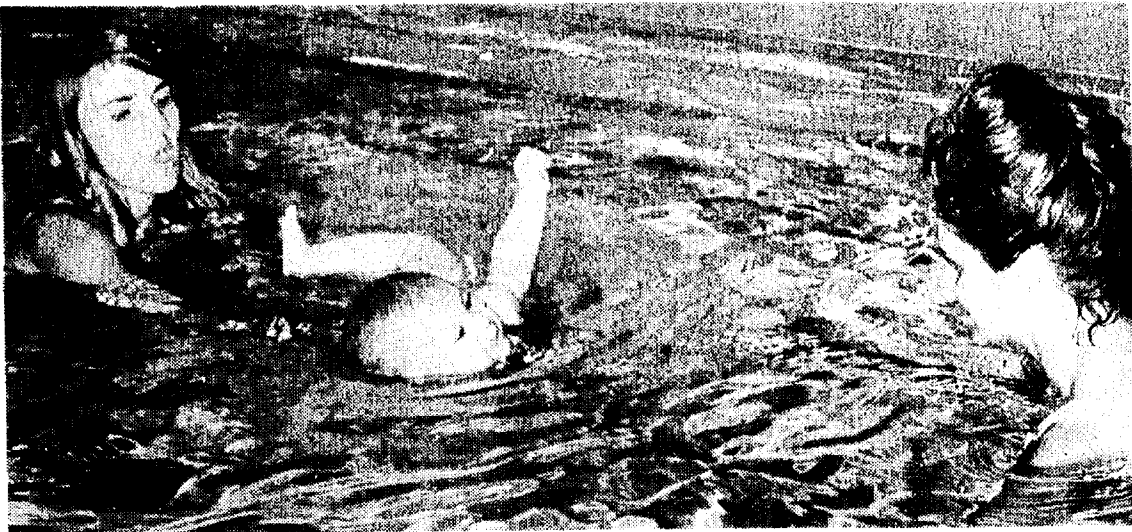

The students will be asked to bring a copy of the income tax. MSU officials admitted all the mechanics of the plan, which they want to put into effect this fall, have not been worked out as yet.

"Some families might simply refuse to show their income tax return and then would be assessed the full $501," commented one MSU official.

The plan is the idea of Trustee Don Stevens of Okemos, a regional representative for the United Auto Workers.

G.E. Fears 9,000 TVs Radioactive

Possible Damage
Not Known

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 9,000 color television set owners and their families may be exposed to harmful radioactive rays from their sets, says the government.

It urged the unknown owners of the large-screen color consoles and table models manufactured by the General Electric Co. and sold between Sept. 1, 1966 and May 31, 1967 to pull the plugs and keep their television screens dark pending a check on possible radioactivity.

The warning came Friday from Surgeon General William H. Stewart, who said a painstaking nationwide search by General Electric had failed to turn up the 9,000 sets.

That's about one-tenth of the television sets the company feared might be emitting potentially harmful X-rays from certain tubes.

Even if the sets are issuing such rays, the extent of the harm they could cause was not precisely known.

Dr. Stewart described such rays as "a potential hazard to human health." A Public Health Service spokesman said later he saw no need for any owners of one of the sets to consult a doctor.

Stewart said tests on the tubes supplied by General Electric indicated a large percentage of them leaked radiation.

A GE spokesman said the color sets involved have 18-, 20-, 22- and 23-inch screens.

The tubes involved were identified by the numbers 6EF4 and 6L06.

Stewart praised GE's search for the defective sets, which he said led to location and correction of some 100,000 tubes.

Owners of such sets were urged to notify GE dealers or service centers or state or local health departments before using them.

In Syracuse, N.Y., a GE spokesman said the sets involved "have a blue fine tune gauge above the control knobs and have on the back of the set either a serial number sticker beginning with OA or OD or no serial number at all."

"Receivers which already have been modified have a red and white label pasted on the back covering regulator tube replacement."

LITTLE DANGER, THOUGH Pentagon Officials Exposed To Leprosy

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 85 top Pentagon officials have been exposed to leprosy, but a physician says the odds are one million to one against them contracting the dread disease. Dr. Shirley C. Fisk, deputy assistant defense secretary for health and medical matters, disclosed Friday that a 22-year-old Filipino waiter in a Pentagon dining area was found to be suffering with leprosy. The waiter, who wasn't identified, is undergoing treatment in Bethesda Navy Hospital in suburban Maryland. Fisk said experts on leprosy told him "the possibility of infection under these circumstances approaches zero-one chance in a million."

The dining area, set aside for Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and other senior defense officials, is on the Pentagon's third floor.

Fish Stock Plan To Stop Alewife

Senator Volkema Says
It's Best Way

LANSING — State Senator Harold Volkema (R-Holland) said Friday the Legislature hopes to obtain $250,000 to plan a predator fish stocking program to control the troublesome alewife fish in Lake Michigan.

After a meeting of special Senate committee members and State Conservation department officials headed by Wayne H. Tody, chief of the fish division, Volkema said it appears that plantings of coho and chinook salmon and other predator fish is the best solution to the alewife problem.

"When millions of dead fish are cluttering up our best beaches and making life miserable for cottagers, it may be hard to believe that, in the long run, they may be a boon to Michigan," said Senator Volkema.

SPECIAL SESSION

"When the Legislature convenes in special session in October, we hope to obtain $250,000 to plan for hatcheries to produce the fish needed to combat alewives. We can get federal funds with which to push the program."

"Huge plantings of the salmon not only will help rid the lakes of alewives, but also will restock Lake Michigan with game fish that again will make it one of the nation's great fishing areas. So, as disastrous as the alewives have been, something good may come of it."

Justice Felt Fast Time Not Legal

Other 6 Judges
Ruled For EDT

LANSING (AP) — Michigan Supreme Court Justice Paul Adams thinks the state's clocks are an hour faster this summer than they legally should be.

But, it was revealed Friday, six other justices disagreed with Adams and ruled that if the board of state canvassers certified fast-time referendum petitions—which it did at 12:01 a.m. June 14—the state would go on Eastern Daylight Time.

The high court on June 9 rejected arguments by the Michigan Farm Bureau and other opponents of savings time and ruled the canvassers could legally certify the petitions. There was no disagreement on the court about that.

But Adams argued that certification of the petitions would not place Michigan on savings time until April, 1968, because the date set by congress for the 1967 switch to fast time—the last Sunday in April—had already passed.

Although the court issued its order June 9, the opinions of the seven justices who signed it were not made public until Friday. Chief Justice John Dethmers did not participate in the case.

1 1/2c Per Quart Hike Expected

Farmers Are Boosting Cost
To Dairies

From Associated Press
And Local Sources

The price of milk in Michigan is expected to increase about 1 1/2 cents per quart in about two weeks.

The Michigan Milk Producers Association (MMPA) said Friday it is increasing by about two-thirds of a cent per quart the price it charges dairies for raw milk.

A Greater Detroit Board of Commerce spokesman said added costs in packaging and processing of milk probably will raise the total cost to the consumer by about 1 1/2 cents.

AREA DAIRIES

Two dairies supplying milk in the area expect to raise prices in about two weeks and a third plans a survey to determine if it will be able to hold the price line.

Dean Forburger, manager of Producers Creamery, Benton Harbor, by far the largest dairy in the local area, was quoted as saying his company plans to take a survey to see if the increase can be absorbed.

However, Lockshore Farms of Kalamazoo, which distributes milk under Dean Dairy label, will "definitely raise the price," according to Fred Strong, vice president in charge of sales.

John Hoinville, manager of the Cass Dairy stores, said "We probably will have to pass the increase on to the consumer; there is no place to absorb it."

The Cassopolis-based independent dairy distributes milk through eight stores in Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Niles, Dowagiac and Cassopolis.

EFFECTIVE DATE

The increase will take effect Aug. 1 on the MMPA increase of 30 cents per hundredweight, raising the price to $6.40 for 100 pounds of raw milk.

The board of commerce spokesman said similar increases in the retail price of ice cream, cottage cheese and other dairy products are likely.

The MMPA's members supply about 80 per cent of the state's milk.

The association's increase comes just a year after it raised the price from $5.40 to $6.10 per hundredweight.

EXPLAINS BOOST

Glenn Lake, president of the 8,500-member cooperative, said the cost of dairy farming has gone up, causing the association to increase the price of the dairy farmer's product.

He denied, however, that the action resulted from the fact that members of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) last spring dumped their milk for two weeks in an effort to force the price up.

The MMPA opposed the NFO strike.

The association's increase came in the wake of a decision by the Great Lakes Milk Marketing Federation to raise the raw milk price. Lake is president of the federation, of which the MMPA is a member.

The federation has members also in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee.

Say General 'Ordered' Sentences

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has been ordered to hold a series of hearings to determine whether the commanding general of Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., used his rank to influence court-martial sentences.

The U.S. Court of Military Appeals ordered the hearings Friday after viewing appeals last month from 17 soldiers charging Maj. Gen. T. H. Lipscomb had urged court-martial officers under his command to give heavy sentences as a means of "strengthening discipline" at the post.

The court, saying a "serious question of command control has been raised," ordered hearings into each of the 17 cases. Seventy-two cases hinge on the outcome.

CONFIRMED: The U. S. Senate has confirmed the appointments of three area postmasters who had been nominated by President Johnson. From left are Charles L. Heavilin, Fennville; Zane F. Miller, New Troy; and Frederick G. Hamlin, Watervliet. All have been acting postmasters for several months.

Halfway Measure

Following the crippling New York City subway strike last year, President Johnson promised to draw a plan for Congressional approval to solve labor disputes in public transportation, and in other areas which "threaten irreparable damage to the national interest."

Months passed and LBJ notified Congress that since his advisors could not agree on a plan he wanted the legislative branch to work up an idea. Implicit in the suggestion was a promise to sign anything Congress drafted.

Congress chose to sit out the dance in the same manner that LBJ found expedient to do and by reason of this buck passing the country almost fell into a prolonged rail strike this past week-end.

Six shopcraft unions had rejected contract terms which three-quarters of the other railroad workers had accepted and turned down a more generous proposal developed by a Presidential panel.

During the argument Congress has held off writing any kind of a bill through an understanding with the unions that an 11th hour settlement was possible and federal action would simply junk any hope of a peaceful settlement.

According to Drew Pearson, one militant leader in the union bargaining team, the man who pulled the transit strike, was the fly in the ointment.

However close Pearson was to the nub of the dispute, it is an all too frequent factor in labor-management negotiations; and the dismal fact was that no settlement was reached, the unions walked out, and the trains halted.

Congress hurriedly enacted and Johnson signed a bill which had been laying on somebody's desk for months.

It calls for the Presidential appointment of another special committee to mediate between the rails and the shopcraft unions. If no agreement is reached, the panel lays down its own guide lines for both sides to accept and if either one jumps the track, then the government can ask the courts to require compliance.

Strictly speaking, this is not the compulsory arbitration which most unions protest and about which most employing managements feel skittish, but it amounts to third party control of what ordinarily the belligerents feel is their own backyard fight.

Because Johnson and Congress tossed this political football back and forth for so long, this week's ad hoc remedy is the best that could be expected under the circumstances.

By no means, though, does it finalize the broader problem of the public interest in certain quarrels.

A family can, for example, get along without a washing machine or a refrigerator or an air conditioner. The absence of either one would be a dreadful nuisance, but life would go on some how or other. Consequently there is no crying need for compulsory arbitration of the Whirlpool strike.

The strike shoe, however, causes a different kind of pinch when it hits transportation, utility service, fuel production and other commodities or services which are basic to the entire economy.

Compulsory arbitration in those areas is a step below an absolute prohibition against striking and an alternative to government seizure of the facilities. Like the anti-riot legislation passed overwhelmingly in the House after the Newark disturbance, compulsory arbitration is a remedy born of irritation and therefore, subject to the frailties of haste making waste.

To date, however, it appears to be the one and only answer to the planned disruption such as the shopcraft union leaders brought about.

Home's Where Danger Is

When the hubbub of daily existence is finished and the family comes home, a feeling of tranquility fills the abode. Whatever the enjoyment and excitement of excursions away from home, the return is always anticipated in the knowledge that there is irreplaceable comfort in the informality and security of the home.

Too frequently the serenity of the home is broken by the intrusion of misery in the form of an accident. Various safety agencies issue frequent reminders that the home is the greatest single source of accidents, exceeding the next two largest combined. Almost half of the more than 50 million injuries suffered each year in the United States occur within the confines of the home.

Accident is really too generous a term to apply to most of the injuries occurring within the home. Most of them are the result of culpable negligence on the part of the victim. Everyone knows it is dangerous to put a box on a chair and use it for a ladder, or attempt to repair an electrical appliance without disconnecting its contact, but these are among the most common causes of "accidents."

Accidents on the highways and the high toll of human life taken and crippled by the automobile are a national disgrace, but the same public which has become aware of this danger continues to maim and kill itself in the sanctity of the home. What quirk is it that recognizes the danger of speed and inattention on the highway but permits obstacles on the stairs and dangerous medicines and tools within the reach of children?

Until accident awareness reaches into it, the home cannot be the haven it was meant to be.

What Good Is A Ginkgo?

What good is a ginkgo? This question is often asked in Washington, D.C., when thousands of ginkgo trees (ginkgo biloba) imported from the Orient drop their messy, rancid-smelling fruits. Washington residents have been heard to remark that the female ginkgo is a stinko. Ginkgos are either male or female and the male does not offend by dropping fruits.

The question would hardly be asked in China or Japan, where the ginkgo nut, if not the fruit, is considered a delicacy. Several years ago the possibility was voiced that the ginkgo could possibly yield a cure for cancer. The National Cancer Institute made a study of the female ginkgo, along with several hundred other species of plants, to discover whether there was any basis for the claims long made for it by Oriental healers.

The search was fruitless. Chinese physicians, African witch doctors, and other medical men of that stamp have been found to have knowledge of herbal remedies which laboratory tests have shown to contain drugs of efficiency in treating certain diseases. Quinine and curare are examples.

The ornamental ginkgo may yet prove to contain a substance whose legendary value may be founded on fact. In the meantime its chief function will be to continue to mess up the pavement.

Letters To The Editor...

Editor,

The Herald-Press:

CHURCH COSTS TOO MUCH

Which Sabbath to keep is being asked in the minds of many people today. Be it the seventh or eighth day, this is a commandment given to God's people just as much as tithing is in the Old Testament and God said "If you love Me, you will keep My commandments."

Pastors say God blessed the seventh day. You'll get a blessing keeping his command. "And right they are. Pastors say tithing 10 per cent. God will bless the other nine that's left. And right they are. We would have to ask like the people of old, Which of these are the greater? (this question to pastors).

They stand and say I pay so much. Like the people of old. And how they're missing the greatest blessing of all by material things. If they would only give one-half per cent of what God gave them as a gift in the gospels of Christ.

Don't they believe God will provide their needs? Yes, their needs but not their greeds. That's also a promise. No wonder the Devil has free reign in the churches. Our churches are used for everything but what God said, Prayer and thanksgiving. We use them for our living, also not just ours, but every jingling brass clanking, tamberine evangelist who comes along. Our ten per cent does many things but not what God intended when he said these words, "Give to the poor widows and children, do not your alms before men."

Pastors stand up and ask for the ushers to come forth and giving $2 or $5 looks at me. God have mercy! I've seen this in our supposed to be spirit - of - God - filled churches. They worry about other countries and let our people starve for the gospel about delinquent children.

Now, pastor, tell me, can parents teach children when they don't know themselves? You're shirking your duty even though you do pay tithes. Children can't gain on just the hour in Sunday school about our great and wonderful God. The parents have to take over at home but we have to know how. Please help us. God gave this gift to you, use it. Stand on his promise you preach every sermon day. Lay not up your treasure where it will corrupt in man's hands.

Christian people, Pray God will stir up our leaders, our Christian leaders. Your and my children need us. Let's get on our knees and really pray. God hears and knows. One day He's coming. We hear this every day. I wonder will He recognize our church buildings today?

He's coming, the pastors are right, and He knows every heart, so go to church and get what you can. God, Our Savior Jesus Christ, knows we've done our best if we try whether we're in good standing with our church records or pastor. God also knows our pastor can't condemn us. That's God's duty. Remember how he wrote in the sand and said, "Neither do I condemn thee. Go and sin no more." Let's get together. We can move mountains with prayer and faith. I'm hungry for truth, gospel person, and fed up with entertained religionists.

Pastors and evangelists, repent and give of the true gospel, fill the churches with what people expect, love, charity, true worship of God, prayer and teaching. That's what the disciples asked Jesus. Teach us to pray. That's what people want, honest God fearing people.

If you don't, I'm afraid what God will say when He comes. The Bible tells us this and you know it. Take the dollar sign out of your eyes and believe God's word. You preach it. Believe it. God is interested in lost souls that the Devil has won and you, pastor of the gospel, have given these people to him. Bring them back to the fold.

You give a percentage of the spiritual that people are hungry for instead of money and your churches will be filled to capacity. Make the churches again what they were when the Pilgrims landed here long ago, praising the Lord with thanks-giving prayer, and each people.

Be an example like Our Lord expects. A congregation that prays together, stays. Pastors who pray will chase the devil away. Don't scare the Devil away. Pray him away. He doesn't make a big noise, just silently prowls — his own description.

THREE OAKS WORSHIPPER

speaking of YOUR HEALTH

By Lester L. Coleman, M. D.

A stroke, one of the dreaded and serious causes of long-standing illness, is the result of a hemorrhage, or clot, in one of the larger blood vessels of the brain. When the blood supply and its life-bringing oxygen is interfered with, the brain suffers damage which then affects the rest of the body. The severity of the stroke depends on the size of the artery to the brain that is damaged.

For years research scientists, many under government sponsorship, had been working to reduce the frequency of this condition. A most interesting statistical survey has just been released from Harvard University Medical School which may yet prevent some strokes and spare many lives.

Dr. Ralph S. Paffenbarger, Jr., has studied 855 college-trained patients whose records were easily available. He came to the astonishing conclusion that victims of serious and even fatal strokes had definite characteristics that shed light on the cause.

One hundred and seventy-one of these former college students who had died of strokes were compared with 864 of their surviving classmates. These are some of the important conclusions he came to.

Students who had smoked more than 10 cigarettes a day had twice as many strokes as those who had smoked only a few or none at all. Students who participated in college sports and continued afterwards had fewer strokes than those who did not exercise.

There were other conclusions of a more technical nature like high blood pressure and the general body build that were not under the direct control of any of these people. It was interesting, too, that many of the characteristics of the stroke victims closely paralleled those, in another study, who had had heart attacks.

These are forceful conclusions and should be respected by those who continue to smoke, gain excessive weight and do very little exercise.

There are many instruments that now can be inserted into the lungs, the lower intestines, the stomach and into the urinary bladder so that the doctor can visualize hidden areas for the diagnosis and treatment of disease. These scopes are remarkable and ingenious.

A bronchoscope is one that can be placed into the lungs for the detection of tumors and diseases in the entire bronchial tree. Through these rigid tubes, specially designed instruments can remove the most unusual foreign bodies.

A tiny grasper can gently remove a peanut from the lungs of a child without breaking it. An open safety pin can be closed with another forceps before it is removed from the lung or esophagus.

I am certain that no one would mind if from left field I introduce the warning that infants and children do not have enough nourishment in nuts to warrant their danger of being sucked into the lungs.

Now another scope has been devised by Dr. Richard L. Lipson at the University of Vermont. With it he can painlessly, under local anesthesia, look into a joint of the body in order to view, photograph and even take out a piece of tissue for the diagnosis of a particular type of arthritis. With this new instrument many cases of surgery for this purpose can be avoided.

Opening lead — ace of clubs. Good defense rests largely on partnership cooperations. A fine defensive pair nearly always defend perfectly once the opening lead is made and they have the opportunity to exchange the information required to produce the best result.

Here is an example of good teamwork which shows how a difficult problem can be solved by the use of accurate signals.

West led the ace of clubs, on which East played the nine. West might have had some difficulty choosing whether to continue with a spade or a heart, but having noted a East's highcard signal in clubs, he led a spade.

The play of the nine was obviously suit-directional. Considering the club strength visible in dummy, East could hardly be signaling for a club continuation by playing the nine. His high card, the nine, could therefore only be interpreted as indicating a desire for a shift to the higher ranking of the two side suits (spades and hearts).

(Had East desired a heart return because he was void of hearts or had the ace, he would have played the three of clubs on the ace to show that he wanted the lower ranking suit played.)

Accordingly, West led a spade at trick two, but, in order to persuade East that he wanted a club return at trick three, he led the queen rather than his fourth best spade, the seven. Had West led the seven, East might have been tempted to take twelfth the ace and return a spade in the hope that his partner would score the setting trick with the king.

East had no trouble reading the situation accurately. He took the queen with the ace and returned a club at trick three. South now could not avoid going down one, but when he tried to make the contract by ruffing with the jack, West overruffed and South went down two.

American poet and short-story writer Stephen Vincent Benet was born at Bethlehem, Pa., in 1898. Although his interest in fantasy and themes is well-known, Benet was also used in his literary gifts as a novelist — "Spanish Bayonet" and "James Shore's Laughing" — and a radio writer — "They Burned the Books" and "A Child is Born."

While a freshman at Yale University he published "Young Adventure," a collection of poems which won the John Massfield poetry prize. These early poems displayed a precocious facility which became the whimsical, bizarre expressiveness which made Benet famous.

His best-known works are "John Brown's Body" and "The Devil and Daniel Webster."

"John Brown's Body" is a swiftly-moving narrative poem of the Civil War, a "nationalizing influence" which filled a gap in America's cultural tradition and knit all Americans more closely together. For it, Benet won the 1929 Pulitzer Prize for poetry.

"The Devil and Daniel Webster" is a delightful New England fantasy and folk story which was made into a folk-opera with music by Douglas Moore, and subsequently became a motion picture, "All That Money Can Buy."

Benet's "Western Star," the first part of an American epic left unfinished at his death in 1943, posthumously won the 1944 Pulitzer Prize for poetry.

Others born today are soprano Licia Albanese, statesman A. Ashley Cooper, sculptor Alexander Calder, psychiatrist Karl Menninger, actor Orson Bean.

Those born July 23 include James Cardinal Gibbons, poet-essayist Coventry Patmore, author Stuart Cleote, actor Michael Wilding, baseball's Lon Drysdale and "Pee-wee" Reese.

WHIRLPOOL UNION TO MEET ON THURSDAY

Blind Youth Gives Fireworks Warning

SJ Resident Appears On Boston TV

Plans To Enter State College

By DICK DERRICK
S.J. City Editor

David (Butch) Shue, Jr. went on television in Boston to warn about the hazard of fireworks — almost a year after he was blinded by an exploding cherry bomb.

"If just one person could be saved from injury it will be worth it," he said with the seriousness borne of a year of living in darkness.

Right now, the 19-year-old St. Joseph high school graduate is making plans for entering college. He wants to take business administration at either Michigan State or Western Michigan university.

A CHALLENGE

Going to college presents a challenge. He must determine what textbooks are in braille, on tape or if readers are available.

But after spending four months at a special school in Newton, Mass., he is confident he can navigate about any campus without difficulty.

His experience at St. Paul's Rehabilitation center was rewarding and heartwarming. "First, they build up your confidence," he said. They also teach you many every-day tricks to live by.

His white cane reaches almost to his shoulders. But it's especially long because he has a long stride, and the cane is used to feel his way along. He demonstrated. The cane is pointed out to his right as his left foot takes a step. And then his right foot moves ahead.

At St. Paul's, students get "their wings" when they demonstrate ability to go out alone, after being constantly in the company of a guide.

David went "sightseeing" in Hyannis Port, Cape Cod, Boston and New York, while at school. Crossing busy streets and finding his way in unfamiliar territory holds no terrors for the determined blind youth.

As soon as he returned home he began to take long walks, going the 19 blocks from his home on Marion avenue to St. Joseph high school without any trouble. "I feel I can go anywhere in St. Joseph," he said.

He said you learn to count blocks, listen for traffic and locate places by other sounds.

He was scheduled to come home June 30, but he stayed to appear on a Boston television newscast to tell others the last thing he saw was an exploding cherry bomb and warn against playing with fireworks.

The air trip home meant stops in Detroit and Lansing, a change of planes at Grand Rapids.

After a year of blindness he can say: "Anyone can overcome a handicap as long as they have the mind to do it."

He added: "And I have not given up hope that someday I will get my sight back." He said he wants to thank all of the people who have helped him in more ways than he can mention.

David, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Shue, Sr., is a 1966 graduate of St. Joseph high school where he played football and basketball. The 6-foot, 5-inch youth had hoped to join the Air Force.

He was blinded July 4, 1966.

Will Hear Report On Negotiations

No Vote Seen On Contract; Company Letter Blasted

International Association of Machinist Local 1918 will hold a mass meeting next Thursday — the first since May 7 when the strike started at Whirlpool's St. Joseph division.

Ed Kepp, local business agent, described it as a regular membership meeting with a report on negotiations.

In recent weeks, some union members have made demands for a mass meeting via letters to the local press.

Although reports were circulating yesterday of a back-to-work movement this coming Monday, there was no official confirmation that a walk-in would be attempted.

Kepp said the negotiating committee as of today does not have an official contract proposal to place before the membership.

UNION SPOKESMAN

"As of this time the company refuses to put anything in black and white. This eliminates any possibility of an official proposal."

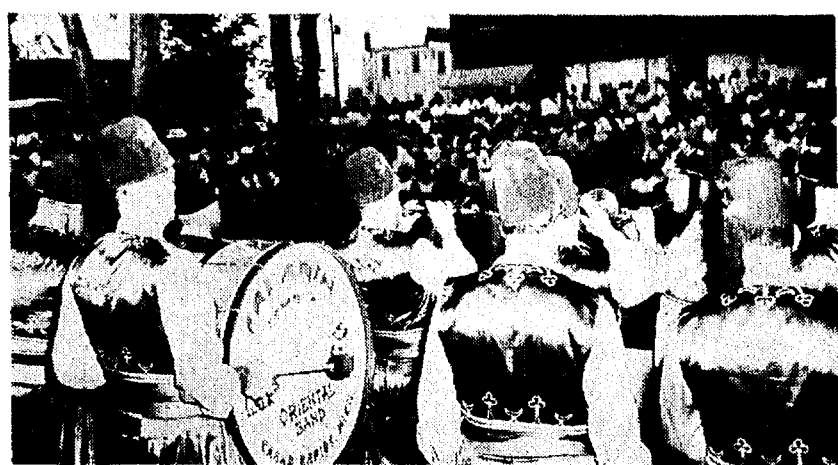

The membership session will be at 2:30 p.m. in Benton Harbor high school auditorium. Kepp also accused the company of making "false statements" in a newsletter to employees. He denied the committee has presented additional proposals, saying its proposals have "always been on the table, although it was quite some time since they had been referred to."

He added that the company had misinterpreted the union's constitution in saying that a new company offer to settle a strike must be presented to the general membership to vote by secret ballot.

Kepp said the provision relates to before a strike starts, not after it is sanctioned by the membership.

STRIKE BENEFITS
Strike benefit checks will be distributed at union offices, 225 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, until 6 p.m. today, and from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday and Monday; 7 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Benton Harbor police reported one incident at the entrance to Whirlpool's Riverview drive plant Friday. A worker entering the plant was ticketed for failure to yield right-of-way to a pedestrian. The pedestrian was a picket, Mitchell Astopentia, 688 Wood street, Benton township. Driver of the car was D.C. Newman, 2919 Lakeshore drive, St. Joseph. No one was injured.

Absentee Ballots Available

BH Tax Millage Election Aug. 1

Absentee ballots will be available starting Monday for the operating tax millage election that will be held Aug. 1 in the Benton Harbor school district.

On the ballot is a proposal for 4.25 mills in extra operating taxes for three years.

Raymond Sreboth, assistant superintendent for business affairs, said voters in the City of Benton Harbor, living in precincts 1-10, can obtain ballots at the city clerk's office.

Absentee ballots for all other voters in the school district will be distributed at the school administration office, 400 Pipestone street.

All registered voters in the district are eligible to ballot on the proposal. Polling places on election will be the same as school elections of June 6 and June 12.

The operating millage was defeated June 6, along with a $9,275,000 bond issue. The Aug. 1 vote is strictly for operating funds. School officials have said failure of the millage will mean reductions in teaching staff, services and supplies amounting to about $600,000.

St. Joe Tot Falls From Mom's Car

Suffers Only Minor Injuries

A three-year-old St. Joseph tot, Anthony Hicks, suffered scrapes of back, scalp and left hand shortly before 1 p.m. Friday when he tumbled out of his mother's car at the westbound entrance to I-94 on M-139 in Benton township, according to a report filed with Berrien county sheriff's deputies.

Anthony's mother, Mrs. James (Janice) Hicks, 28, 968 Vinewood street, told Deputy Eugene Eklund she was attempting a turn when the boy somehow tumbled out the left rear door. He was admitted to Memorial hospital in St. Joseph and reported "doing real well" early today.

In another accident, Phillip Dennis Harold, 17, of 1205 Miller lane, St. Joseph, suffered apparently minor injuries early today in a highway crash.

Harold sustained a lacerated forehead and a sore arm when his southbound auto crossed the center line of Washington avenue near Hickory street in St. Joseph township about 4 a.m. today and hit two mailboxes, a tree, and came to rest in a ravine, deputies reported.

Harold was treated and released from Memorial hospital. The crash was still under investigation by Deputy Ronald Weber.

BIRTH REPORTED

THREE OAKS — Mr. and Mrs. Francis Buckingham, Battle Creek, announce the birth of a 5 pound, 5 ounce daughter, born July 15 in Lila hospital, Battle Creek.

Buckingham is the former Theresa Sittig of Three Oaks. The Buckingham's have five other children. Mrs. Margaret Buckingham, New Buffalo, and Mrs. Frances Sittig, Three Oaks, are the grandmothers of the infant.

FRESH START MONDAY

SJ Driver Training Course Well Attended

One hundred and fifty-eight young drivers have completed driver training and another 160 start Monday, Arnie Karsten, head of the course at St. Joseph high school, said today. Groups 5 and 6 will report at 8 a.m. Monday and groups 7 and 8 will report for instruction in the St. Joseph high school cafeteria at 1 p.m. Monday. Instructors for the second half of the summer course are George Benton, Maurice Hampton, Joe Vollins and Robert Schmid.

The drivers who have completed the driver training course receive a 30-day provisional driving permit enabling them to drive in the presence of a parent. After that time, they can apply for a road test and their license. Monday those students who have completed the course can start taking the "What Every Driver Must Know" test at the Berrien county sheriff's department.

Final Expansion In St. Joe Renewal

Planning Commission Asks Laundry Site Be Added

St. Joseph's planning commission yesterday voted unanimously to recommend expansion of the urban renewal area to include the Clean Queen coin laundry at 720 Ship Street.

Urban Renewal Director C. Thomas Daley said flatly: "Michigan R-75 (St. Joseph's renewal project) will stop right there. It added federal authorities have advised local developers no major expansion of urban renewal projects will be approved because of the financial drain of the war in Vietnam."

The additional parcel is intended as a new location for the Federal Land Bank, presently at the southwest corner of Court and Port streets. The bank building originally was exempted from demolition because it was considered compatible with new developments. However, the bank site is now needed to complete a shopping center planned in the block bounded by Main, Ship, Court and Port streets.

Developer of the center is John P. (Bud) Barlow whose plan envisions the entire use of Block 5.

Daley said Land Bank officials agreed to sell the property to aid the urban renewal program, but only if an alternate site could be found near the courthouse. The Clean Queen location was considered the best available.

Daley said acquisition of the Land Bank and Clean Queen property will not increase the city's cash contributions to urban renewal because credits have been acquired in making other improvements. Plans call for the Land Bank site to be sold to Barlow and the Land Bank to purchase the Clean Queen property from urban renewal.

The planning commission's recommendation now goes to the city commission for final approval.

PARK APPROVED
This planners also reviewed the use of the other parcels in the urban renewal area.

They approved a public park along the south bank of the St. Joseph river from Wayne street to the C&O railway bridge — but did not eliminate the possibility that parts of the area — namely the old Wallace Lumber Co. site on Water street — might someday be developed as a marina or a motel.

Planner James Mason asked what pattern will be established for landscaping and Daley told him urban renewal regulations call for parking lots to be screened by shrubbery.

Daley said it appears the landscaping by Berrien county around its new courthouse has established the pattern.

Architect Don McGrath asked about burying utility lines. Daley said the urban renewal regulations call for all to be underground.

Chairman Neil Berndt asked about the future of the old courthouse. The board of supervisors has approved its demolition and Daley said that project is included in the proposal being forwarded to Washington.

NO ADULT'S HOME

BH Firemen Find Tiny Fire—And 22 Children

Benton Harbor firemen found a small blaze and a lot of children when they answered an alarm Friday at 428 Lincoln avenue. The fire was burning rubbish behind the house. Investigation showed there were 22 children living there from three families and no adults home at the time. An automatic sprinkler extinguished a fire yesterday in a stockroom at Modern Plastics, North Shore drive. Firemen reported minor damage to the stock in the blaze that was caused by sparks from a cutting torch.

Driver Of Death Car Arraigned

Demands Hearing On Manslaughter Charge In SJ

Robert Watkins, 26, of Lakeside, demanded examination last night in his arraignment on a manslaughter charge growing out of the fatal Red Arrow highway crash that killed seven persons.

Clad in pajamas and robe and accompanied by attorney George Keller of Niles, Watkins was arraigned before St. Joseph Municipal Judge Maurice Weber in the offices of the Berrien county jail.

He posted $3,000 bonds and then left for Buchanan Community hospital where he will continue recovery of injuries suffered last Monday when the 1962 convertible he was driving struck a small compact auto scattering its occupants along Red Arrow highway at Lakeside.

SET FOR AUG. 8
The examination date was tentatively set for 10 a.m. Aug. 8.

The warrant charges that Watkins, a factory worker, was traveling at a high rate of speed, that he was not able to stop in the clear assured distance ahead, that he had been drinking and that it was his car that struck the auto with its seven occupants.

Members of two prominent families, from Chicago and Grosse Pointe Farms. Five of the dead were children. It was Berrien county's worst traffic fatality in history.

Armistice Day Paper Found On Farm

German Crown Prince Reported Shot" was the newspaper headline that caught the eye of Alfred Hazelwood last week as he was sorting through a pile of old papers and magazines in a woodshed behind the newly purchased Eau Claire farm home of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Kunst.

Hazelwood, who lives on Fikes road in Riverside, said he particularly noticed the old newspapers because the date on them was 1918, the year of his birth.

The first newspaper bore a Nov. 12 date and the other was dated Nov. 11, 1918, in addition to carrying the headline, "Kaiser Flees Germany."

Hazelwood saw that the paper was an extra edition of the now-defunct Chicago Herald-Examiner, proclaiming Armistice Day, when, at the end of World War I, the Central powers surrendered to the Allies.

FLED TO HOLLAND
The headline pertained to the flight of Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany to Holland with his son, the crown prince, following his abdication of the throne after the armistice was signed.

The newspaper said, "At exactly 1:21 o'clock this afternoon (Nov. 11), President Wilson uttered these words in the hall of the House of Representatives to the joint session of the Senate and House: 'The war thus comes to an end; for, having accepted these terms of armistice, it will be impossible for the German command to renew it.'"

"Pandemonium broke loose with the announcement. Senators and representatives leaped to their feet with a mighty shout of enthusiasm."

PEACE TERMS
In the terms of the armistice accepted by the Central powers, Germany agreed to surrender 10 battleships, 6 battlecruisers, 8 light cruisers, 50 destroyers and all submarines to the Allies. Among other armistice terms, the Central powers were asked to permit immediate evacuation of invaded countries and to allow the return of all allied prisoners.

Youth Skips After Bike, Auto Crash

One party to a car-bicycle crash was ready and willing to give his story, but the other was nowhere to be found, according to a report Friday with Berrien county sheriff's deputies.

They said Freeman Reed, of 1110 Maynard drive, Benton township, reported at 10:25 p.m. that a bicyclist turned into the side of his car on Colfax street near Napier avenue.

The youth was knocked down and suffered a skinned leg. Reed said he stopped to offer aid, gave the boy his own name and address — and the youth took off.

Reed told deputies he thinks the boy was afraid of the consequences, if he were taken home after the crash.

St. Joseph Teacher Named For Institute

Russell Richmond of 1043 Ogden avenue, Benton Harbor, is one of 35 participants selected from more than 700 applicants to take part in Michigan State university's summer institute in geography.

Richmond teaches in the St. Joseph school system at the Brown elementary school. He received his bachelor's degree from Western Michigan and his master's from Michigan State university.

IN EAU CLAIRE

Remedial Reading Program Will Close Next Weekend

EAU CLAIRE — The remedial reading program offered this summer in the Eau Claire school system will come to a close next weekend.

Ernest Tarzwell, principal of the Eau Claire elementary schools, said, "We hope in the future this program will lead into an ungraded classroom for each of the first three grades embracing children needing specialized instruction during the first three years."

School administrators feel the remedial reading programs are especially important and hope that they will lead to provisions for full time classes with specialized instruction for children having difficulties.

MANY REASONS

Teachers say there are many reasons why children are slow in learning to read. Among them are the child's physical condition, emotional problems, home conditions, instructional factors and general working conditions. These problems bring about individualized problems with the children reacting to them in many different ways. The summer courses with small classes offer individualized instruction with an experienced and trained instructor given the opportunity to determine where the child's individual difficulty lies.

Remedial reading classes in the Eau Claire school district are being conducted at the Lybrook school by Miss Adelaide Christian and Mrs. Marion Stiles. Miss Christian and Mrs. Stiles have pointed out the need for individualized instruction for many students through the first three years when they must learn reading fundamentals.

"Unless a child is motivated it is no use trying to teach him to read," the teachers at the Lybrook school said.

"Many of these children, especially those from low economic levels, do not have a very good opinion of themselves to begin with and their school experiences do not encourage them to change this opinion. If they are immature and not ready for reading, their problem is intensified," said Miss Christian.

NEW IMAGE

"The first thing is to try to give the child a new image of himself. The teacher gives each child lots of praise and encouragement. You can't give him too much," she said.

The teachers try to create new interests. The children studied the earthworm by first hand observation and also learned about insects, birds, toads and frogs.

"Many of these children could scarcely read first grade material," said Miss Christian. "Often teachers feel that they must learn to read by using first grade books. This is a mistake because these children are no longer six-year-olds and they have different interests. If they are forced to read these books, they rebel inwardly it is not outwardly," she said.

Among the materials used by the instructors are varied and interesting materials on appropriate levels of reading, the opaque projector, the filmstrip and the overhead projector.

USE PROJECTOR

The teachers said the use of the overhead projector and the opaque projector for reading on a screen is ideal for children.

New Buffalo Swimming Registration

NEW BUFFALO — Registration for swimming classes to be held at City Beach will be at 10 a.m. Monday and at 1 p.m. at Cherry beach, Lakeside. The classes, sponsored by the American Red Cross, will give all phases of instruction free of charge and will continue through Aug. 4.

ANNUAL EVENT

Venetian Festival In Saugatuck July 29

SAUGATUCK—The Venetian Festival, an annual event held in Saugatuck the last Saturday in July will be held July 29. Features will be a parade of antique cars during the noon hour, sailing races, outdoor art exhibits, sky diving and water safety demonstrations. The Southern Michigan Fisherman's Co-op will sponsor a demonstration on the processing of alwives for food. Evening activities will feature a parade of decorated boats up the Kalamazoo river, a band concert in the park, and a display of fireworks. The event is sponsored by Saugatuck's two yacht clubs and the village of Saugatuck.

Many children are not ready for close reading because their eyes are immature. "This kind of reading does not hurt their eyes," they said.

Miss Christian taught nine years at Columbia Union college, Washington, D.C.; four years in elementary education in Japan and Korea, and she taught a non-graded room at Andrews university for 10 years before accepting her teaching position at Eau Claire.

Mrs. Stiles teaches special reading at the Eau Claire elementary school during the school year, and she is the president of the Berrien County Association of Remedial Reading Teachers.

Band Concert At Red Woolfe

DECATUR — The annual band concert and ice cream and cake social will be held at Red Woolfe Park, Lake of the Woods, Wednesday evening, July 26. Mrs. Mack Jones is general chairman. She will be assisted by Mrs. Richard Shroyer, Mrs. Leonard Jankowski, and Mrs. Hubert Knoll, co-chairmen, and several other committee members.

It's a good feeling alright. This boy's savings are stashed away in one big lump sum. And his savings are all profits from his newspaper route.

"HOW DOES IT FEEL TO BE A NEWS-PAPERBOY WITH MONEY IN THE BANK?"

Of course, he's free to spend in any way he'd like. But by now he knows the value of a dollar. He's saving this money for college. Smart move, Buster. (You can understand why he has such a smug look on his face.)

If you're a boy 12 or over and would like to have the responsibility of your own newspaper route, sit down and talk it over with your parents. See if you aren't capable of going into business for yourself as a newspaperboy.
